Three models, two traditional, one contemporary. Made from stainless steel. Cook on any of these like a pro! Based on the South African braai principles, you can't cook better on wood. The aroma of meat being cooked to perfection over hot coals wafting from your garden or outdoor entertainment area can't be beaten.

There's nothing more South African than a braai, the country's version of a barbecue and to be enjoyed by family and friends in the sunny outdoors. The word "braai" is an integral part of any locals lexicon and is an important cultural event for any visitor to South Africa.

The firebox and ashpan are finished with high-heat paint to hide any discolouring that can occur when stainless steel is heated. Also fitted with an ember-maker for quick and easy creation of charcoal embers, which allow braaing within 30 minutes, providing a continuous flow of embers - and then the enjoyment of a fire for the full duration of your braai process and the rest of the evening. Also fitted with a light which makes night time cooking a breeze.

Other features include a potjie hook to hang your potjie (a small pot for stew, chilli or soup) and a lightweight ash drawer for easy cleaning.
